Well I must say that the saying "it's not the destination, it's the journey that counts" comes to mind when I think of today and everything that got us there. I knew when I read your reviews you were a very good attorney. (And if I may say it now, very pretty). I remember the elated feeling I had when you took my case. It was a relief. I also remember all the twists and turns, bombarding emails to you, and the vulnerable feeling that I could lose you as my advocate with all the frustrations I put you through. Throughout you stayed true to your word, you responded to everything that came your way in a moments notice. At times I wondered if you slept because you would respond to things I would send you after 9pm on the same night. All along you gave me good advice, which most of the time I resisted (ok... all the time), and the Alpha in you would go head to head with the Alpha in me. I can tell you that although I was argumentative and frustrated I absolutely respected you. Today started out like most every interaction, but I got a little better and maybe as good as I could have been because I got to see that amazing attorney everyone else had seen in action. I realized you did "have it" and you didn't need me, as you were usually a couple steps ahead of me and I finally realized that. You aren't just a good attorney, you are the best I've seen. :). I know you know you are good at what you do, but you'll never know what it feels like from my perspective. I can only tell you that it feels great when you feel safe and know you've got someone who knows what's right and is going to find a way to get there. You are amazing. [REDACTED]

From the bottom of my heart Thank You for being my Counsel.

Feel free to save this and when you get another [REDACTED] client and let them read it and hopefully they are smart enough to follow your lead and make the journey less frustrating.
